Russia-Ukraine conflict escalation would cause 'devastating' economic damage: IMF

The IMF has warned that the already "serious" global economic impacts of the war in Ukraine would be "all the more devastating", should the conflict escalate. Even as forecast remains subject to "extraordinary uncertainty, the economic consequences" of the invasion launched last week by Russia on its eastern European neighbour "are already very serious," the IMF said in a statement. The IMF said emergency financial assistance requested by Ukraine, already reported on February 25, amounted to $1.4 billion, adding the request could be brought before the executive board as early as next week. "The sanctions on Russia will also have a substantial impact on the global economy and financial markets, with significant spillovers to other countries," the IMF said. It noted "a sharp mark-down in asset prices as well as the ruble exchange rate" already, with the full scope of the "unprecedented" sanctions' impact too early to call.

WAR OF WORDS ESCALATES AS RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE AGAINST UKRAINE CONTINUES

The current (Ukrainian) authorities must understand that if they continue to do what they are doing, they are putting in question the future of Ukrainian statehood. And if this happens, they will be fully responsible
VLADIMIR PUTIN, President, Russia

Every metre of our Ukrainian land won by protest and humiliation of the invaders is a step forward, a step towards victory for our entire state. This is a chance to live. Ukrainians! In all our cities where the enemy entered... feel it. Go on the offensive

Putin likens sanctions to a 'Declaration of War'

Russian President Vladimir Putin threatened the existence of Ukrainian statehood as his army's invasion of the neighbour faced stiff resistance on Sunday, and his economy is increasingly asphyxiated by sanctions. In the latest efforts to freeze Moscow out of the world economy, US-based card payment giants Visa and Mastercard announced they will suspend operations in Russia, while world leaders vowed to act over the intensifying onslaught. Kyiv has urged the West to boost military assistance to the besieged country, including warplanes, with President Volodymyr Zelenskyy pleading for Eastern European neighbours to provide Russian-made planes that his citizens are trained to fly.

Meanwhile, Putin escalated warnings against NATO, threatening a wider war, if a no-fly zone is set up, as his forces resumed their offensive. The strategic city of Mariupol on the Azov Sea has for days been under siege and without electricity, food and water

UKRAINE CITY MARIUPOL TRIES AGAIN TO EVACUATE CIVILIANS

The Ukrainian port city of Mariupol, which is surrounded by Russian troops, said it will restart efforts to evacuate civilians, after earlier efforts were scuppered by ceasefire violations. The first ceasefire attempted in Ukraine to evacuate desperate civilians collapsed on Saturday amid ongoing shelling, as Russian and Ukrainian officials traded blame and Moscow tightened its grip on the war-battered country's strategic seacoast. Meanwhile, Russia has claimed to have destroyed a key Ukrainian air base in a long-distance precision strike. Ukraine, on the other hand, claimed that 11,000 Russian soldiers have been killed in the on-going war

India tries to negotiate for a safe corridor in Sumy

The government on Saturday said it is in touch with authorities in Russia and Ukraine to facilitate a ceasefire in Ukraine's conflict zone and ensure safe evacuation of Indian students trapped in the northeastern city of Sumy. According to the MEA, over 20,000 Indians have left Ukraine since India issued initial advisories. So far, 13,300 Indians have been evacuated from Ukraine on 63 flights operating under the government's 'Operation Ganga'. Of these 63 flights, 15 had landed in the 24 hours till Saturday evening, bringing back some 3,000 Indians. Meanwhile, on Sunday, New Delhi sent humanitarian assistance to Ukraine via Poland

UKRAINIAN REFUGEES NEAR 1.5 MILLION

The number of Ukrainian refugees reached nearly 1.5 million on Sunday as Russia continued its attack 11 days after invading Ukraine. Ukrainians, who could escape, spilled into neighbouring Poland, Romania, Slovakia, and elsewhere. Ukrainian negotiators said a third round of talks with Russia on a ceasefire would go ahead on Monday, although Moscow was less definitive.

Mithali Raj becomes first woman cricketer to appear at six Cricket World Cups

Indian women's cricket team skipper Mithali Raj on Sunday became the first woman, and the third cricketer ever to appear at six ICC Women's Cricket World Cups. Leading India in the opening game of their World Cup campaign, the 39-year-old could manage just nine runs in 36 deliveries as she was caught by Pakistan Diana Baig off Nashra Sandhu's bowling on Sunday. The right-hander now equals Australian legend Belinda Clark by captaining at her fourth ICC Women's World Cup. Clark and Mithali stand as the only two players to have captained their country at more than two World Cups.

Do you have a right to feed STRAY DOGS?

The Supreme Court on Friday stayed an order of the Delhi high court, which allowed stray dogs to be fed in every residential society. The Court issued notice to the Animal Welfare Board of India and others on a petition challenging the Delhi high court order relating to the feeding of stray dogs.

THE ORDER: ■ The HC had in July said that animals have a right under law to be treated with compassion, respect and dignity, and protection of such beings is the moral responsibility of each and every citizen, including the governmental and non-governmental organisations ■ It had said that community dogs have the right to food, and citizens have the right to feed community dogs but in exercising this right, they should not impinge upon the rights of others.

THE PLEA: The petitioner contended that the high court order is based upon several "blatantly misleading, irrelevant and factually incorrect statements and misinformation with regard to dog behaviour, problems associated with stray dogs, information regarding dogs, and as also with respect to the existing laws"

₹6,800 CRORE

The amount, which the creators on the video streaming platform YouTube, contributed to India's GDP, says a new report by Oxford Economics, an independent consulting firm. It supported over ₹6.83 lakh full-time equivalent jobs in India in 2020, the report added.

■ A 'creative entrepreneur' stands for YouTube creators, regardless of their gender identity, with at least 10,000 subscribers on their largest channel, and for creators with fewer subscribers, who receive funds directly from YouTube, generate funds from other sources with their YouTube videos and / or permanently employ other people to support their YouTube activities
■ Interestingly, the number of channels in India with over 100,000 subscribers stands at 40,000, which marks a growth of over 45%, year on year

HISTORY HAS IT

THE FIRST ALPHABET – PHOENICIAN ABJAD

The first known civilisation to create a purely phonetic system, completely independent of a pictographic or syllabic system, was the Phoenicians. Around the 15th century BCE, Phoenicians created an alphabet made purely of consonants – an abjad – in which one symbol represented one consonantal sound. It consisted of 22 letters and was written from right to left. Its origin can be traced to Egyptian hieroglyphs and its influences can be seen in the Greek alphabet, which adopted the Phoenician method of writing.

inscribed on oracle bones. Chinese characters, called logograms by linguists, are used in numerous languages across Asia, most notably the languages of China and Japan. An estimated 1.34 billion people around the world use the Chinese alphabet—also known as hanzi, kanji or hanja—for written communication. It is considered among the oldest continuously used forms of writing in the world.

ARABIC

Arabic is the third most widely used script in the world. Around 660 million individuals use Arabic script to communicate in a number of languages, including: Urdu, Pashto, Arabic, Punjabi, Persian, Malaysian, and Kurdish (to name a few). Unlike the other previously mentioned scripts, Arabic is written from right to left.

DEVANAGARI

Devanagari script is used to communicate in around 120 languages, including Nepali, Hindi, Sanskrit, and Marathi. Estimates suggest that around 608 million people around the world utilise Devanagari on a regular basis, making it the fourth most widely used script in the world. This script is written and read from left to right and can be easily recognised by its circular-like shapes and straight-lined outlines.

THE BENGALI ALPHABET

An estimated 300 million people use this syllabic alphabet, which is derived from the Brahmi alphabet and is closely related to Devanagari. The current form of the Bengali alphabet first appeared in 1778 and was slightly modernised in the 19th century.

Why CLASSROOM JOURNALING is great

Scribbling daily notes in class is a safe space for children to write, express and document their own progress

Students of all ages can learn a lot from keeping a regular journal. When teachers introduce the idea of journaling into their classroom, they're often searching for reflective journal writing tips for students. These are the ideas that will help students become motivated to formulate opinions, express themselves openly, and write 'reflectively'.

Most writing is creative writing, where you describe something that happened or you make up a story. However, reflective writing gives the writer insights and can lead to further learning. Reflective writing can also be analytical when applied to critical thinking or processing used in research.

Here are 5 reasons all children must cultivate the habit of reflective journaling:

Active learning: It allows students to advance from passive learners to active learners. Through the process of journaling, students begin to problem-solve on their own.

Getting over fears: By getting your thoughts down on paper, you can gain a deeper understanding of the causes of your own internal conflicts, while you also explore the external challenges you're facing. Your problems, fears, and concerns will come to the surface so you can start to address them and visualise solutions.

Boosts memory: Research has shown that writing information down by hand is an effective way to commit ideas to memory. As a student, you will need to memorise information to pass your exams. Consider integrating journaling into your life as a way to improve your memory.

Creates confident writers: Some students feel they don't have a knack for writing. Journaling breaks down some of those walls. Teachers can provide writing prompts for students to choose from or allow them to reflect on a certain quote.

Develops critical thinking: Reflective journals foster a greater understanding of new ideas. Students can use this opportunity to think deeper about new discoveries, recording personal observations and added research on the topic.

WRITING SYSTEMS OF THE WORLD

Writing has been around for over 5000 years, but there is a wider variety of unique writing systems than you might think

Writing renders language visible; while speech is ephemeral, writing is concrete and, by comparison, a writing system is a method of representing the sounds of a language by written or printed symbols, for instance the Roman alphabet. Let's learn more about some of the most commonly used writing systems around the world:

LATIN ALPHABET

The Latin alphabet is the most widely used script, with nearly 70 percent of the world's population employing it. Latin is used to write a minimum of 305 languages. This script originated in present-day Italy and has since spread around the world with the help of several historic events, most notably: The Roman Empire, Christianity, and European colonisation. It commonly consists of 26 letters and is the basis for the International Phonetic Alphabet, which is used to relate the phonetics of all languages.

CHINESE CHARACTERS

Chinese writing is the oldest system in the world that has hardly changed in the last 4,000 years. It is thought to have originated as pictures around 2,000 BC. The earliest known logographs, or pictographs, were

WORD GETS AROUND

8 TERMS TO MAKE YOU MONEY WISE

Broad money: The amount of money in a country's economy, measured by counting money kept by banks and people.

Gig economy: A way of working that is based on people having temporary jobs or doing separate pieces of work, each paid separately, rather than working for an employer.

Econometrics: The testing of the performance of economies and economic theories using mathematical methods

Shrinkflation: The situation when the price of a product stays the same but its size gets smaller

Standard of living: The amount of money and comfort people have in a particular society

Uberize: To change the market for a service by introducing a different way of buying or using it, especially using mobile technology

Downcycle: A time when there is less economic activity, or when prices or values of something are falling or low:

Disposable income: Money available after one pays taxes and obligatory bill payments.

TONGUE TWISTERS MAKE GREAT ORATORS

Tongue twisters don't make a lot of sense, but they are filled with repeated sounds making them extremely helpful in speech therapy. Basically, a tongue twister works the same way as physical exercise. The more you practice, the better your pronunciation will be.

What is more, tongue twisters were – and probably still are – used by actors before a representation, by politicians before a speech and even by news anchors before going live.

If you are having problems pronouncing certain sounds like "s", "r", "l" or "th", practicing with the right tongue twisters can ameliorate your speech impediment. When it comes to tongue twisters and talking fast, we can't help but think about Eminem. Did you know that he manages to rap with a whopping speed of 11.4 syllables per second in his song "Rap God"? Phew.

Are we moving away from our mother tongue?

This is one of those questions that every Indian should ask himself if he wants to know the future. Supposing the answer in a 'yes' or 'no' - there is an apparent inclination towards the latter as the hours pass and we move forward.

In our society, we don't use language merely to express ourselves, rather, we wear the spoken language as a status symbol.

Today, I am able to speak and write English, but it has not always been the case. I was raised in a small town where exposure to other facets of society was limited. The use of English was limited to our textbooks. When my father was transferred to the capital and we moved, I was awestruck by people speaking English everywhere. I floundered to adapt to the language at first. I understand the irony. Those who are weak in the language that isn't even theirs are teased, and those who speak a broken mother tongue are looked up to.

Research has found that most practices held by humans today are a reflection of the traumas we have endured in the past, and in this case, it is colonialism.

Despite not having English, both for language and inputs, India flourished like the golden bird. However, this all changed when we decided to put our heads down. The British came to India disguised as traders with the goal of annexation and the language barriers created a communication gap, which made us look foolish for not knowing English.

Since then, almost no place in this nation has escaped the colonial effect. Terror can be seen in the transition of language as from outside we step into the plaza premises. It is frightening to see natives ignoring their heritage. We can attribute this to the fact that India is not getting the respect it deserves.

When we ourselves do not respect our roots, how can we expect others to?

South Korea is frequently praised as one of the most developed countries, but it is important to note that just half of the population speaks fluent English. Moreover, even the offices function in the regional dialect to make work as simple and as fast as possible.

Considering international engagements today, it is evident that knowing different languages is always beneficial in the long run. Nevertheless, we should take action when we see it overpowering and pulling us away from our roots. Indian languages number in the hundreds, and they should be nurtured to their full potential. Regional languages are not the sole responsibility of the State boards. It is on every Indian to protect their foundation. The languages should be encouraged like anything so that the students do not feel burdened while studying them as they do now. Language is just a medium to communicate - let it be that. Remember to stick to your roots.

Ryan's MUN highlights global issues

Ryan International School, Noida Extension conducted its second online Model United Nations, RISMUN on January 14 and 15. The sessions highlighted the issues of global awareness, including the terror nexus in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, drug trafficking, and arms trafficking and cybercrime.

The conference helped students to hone their debating and negotiating skills, giving them the opportunity to express their views and of course, boost their confidence in every way. The sessions were presided by chairperson Krishna Sharma and vice chairperson Harsh Mishra.

It was a two day session with six hours of interaction on each day with 22 members which provided unprecedented opportunity to the participating delegates to polish their reading, writing and speaking skills. The delegates discussed on the agenda of consideration upon the root causes and effects of terrorism and its expansion in MENA region and the delegates drafted two resolutions on the same topic in groups of three delegates each.

The delegates were given time for the amendments in clause of resolutions, and ended with the voting in a systematic way. For this session Best Delegate was awarded to Tanvi Srivastava (delegate of US), Verbal Mention to Anchita Sharma (delegate of Algeria), High Commendation1 Prisha Bhatia (Russia) and High Commendation 2, Krishna Sharma (France). The session concluded with the principal Seema Kasumra addressing the session and appreciating the deliberations by the delegates on the prevailing global issues and congratulating the winners.

Boscons bag second position at U-17 Table Tennis inter-zonals

Interschool competitions provide motivation to achieve a goal and to understand that hard work and commitment leads to a greater chance of success.

Students of Bosco Public School, Paschim Vihar participated in the Inter-Zonal Table Tennis in under 17 category for both boys and girls, on February 21 and 22, with great zeal and vigour. Venue for the event was Tyagraj Stadium, Delhi.

The girls team comprising of Archana Jain, Samaira Sharma, Sukriti Gandhi, Ananya Gupta and Richa Singh bagged

the second position. The boys team comprising of Anshuman Agarwal, Priyanuj

Bhattacharya, Ashish Jain, Suryansh Kathuria and Swayam Karmakar

bagged the second position in the event.

Besides following fitness regime and strategic planning, students upheld the spirit of sports throughout as they strived for fair play, courtesy towards teammates and opponents. School principal, Rajiv Duggal remarked that such events help to develop values of constructive social interaction, sportsmanship and healthy competitive spirit among the students. The school vice principal Priya Handa extended her best wishes to the Boscons, their parents and mentors.

A ROOM OF YOUR OWN

THE EDUCATIONIST

Online teaching brought new techniques of teaching into each house. Google classrooms, Zoom, and Microsoft Teams became household names. As a teacher, I have been using MS Teams for more than a year now and I must say that the features offered by this platform are simply superb. All our work remains highly organised.

One of the features is the 'Breakout Rooms'. Here, while in the main meeting, the organiser, that is the teacher, can create groups of students, and put them in separate rooms or meetings, for a certain period of time. This feature is useful during group work. The organiser can visit each room and check the work. After the stipulated period of time all return to the main meeting.

This feature made me realise that we have so many breakout rooms in our minds. Their number depends on us also when to be in which room and for how much time is also decided by us.

Depending on our interests, duties, we create rooms and label

Just like Breakout Rooms in MS Teams, we have so many breakout rooms in our minds. The number depends on us, also when to be in which room and for how much time is also decided by us.

them as family duties, children's education, investments, career, our hobbies, and duties at the workplace, vacation, shopping and so many more. We visit almost all of these 'breakout rooms' every day and how long to be there is also decided by us.

Many times, physically we do a particular task but mentally we keep on moving from one room to another. The reasons for that could be because we are multitasking, and also as adults, we have many responsibilities. In addition, sometimes we are not interested to be in a particular room. So, to balance our tasks, we keep moving from one room to the other. Here the organiser and attendee are one, so it is easy to move. While switching over from one room to another, I would like to be in my special breakout room created only for me. I would do all those things that would make me happy and would just be with myself in that room. Would it not be nice to remain in that room forever? No, then the importance of having that special room would be lost. So, create as many rooms as per your requirements, but have a special 'Breakout Room' for yourself and stay happy.

Sterling victory by Mayoorsians at national level

Mayoor School, Noida in collaboration with Mayo College General Council, Ajmer, congratulated creative geniuses for their exemplary display of creative ingenuity and a spectacular win at the national level scientific creativity competition, 'Jigyasa Vigyan Mahotsav 2022' organised by Council of Scientific and Industrial Research under Ministry of Science and Technology, Govt of India.

An innovative Mohammad Hisham won the grand prize of ₹1 lakh (cash) for his creative video that depicted how the Earth has become inhabitable because of climate change, scarcity of water and alarming depletion of sources. His out of box thinking, application based research and problem solving skills were highly applauded by the eminent panel of jury all across the nation. Akhista Srivastav won the bronze prize, ₹10000 (cash) and Ansh Chaddha made to top 150 selected candidates.

Mayoorians proved their unparalleled experimental designs and concept reasoning permeating their scientific skills.

Principal Alka Awasthi, lauded the efforts of the young scientists and blessed them to continue generating ideas that will be the harbinger of change. She also urged astute Mayoorsians to carry forward the crusade of their alma mater.

Appreciating poets and poetry

St Mark's School, Meera Bagh believes poetry is taught for sheer pleasure and enjoyment. It further lays the foundation for an adequate appreciation of English poetry. The English Department of the school held a beautiful session on 'Poets and Poetry Appreciation' recently attended by principal, A Aggarwal, vice principal, R Anand and teachers. The session explored the lives and works poetic legends like T S Eliot, P B Shelley, William Wordsworth

Robert Browning, John Donne, William Shakespeare, Robert Frost, John Keats, Sylvia Plath, William Blake to name a few.

The enriching experience was an opportunity for teachers to revisit the world of the poets and exchange notes, lessons and learnings with each other.

Express YOURSELF

MY CHANGING PERSPECTIVES

The last two years have been very different than what we call "usual life." I have realised that I experienced many changes in myself and the things surrounding me.

Talking about the pandemic makes me sad, so let us leave that. Now, about my own self. I have become very impatient, especially when things don't go the right way for me.

However, there aren't only cons, there are pros in my changing personality too. I am trying to stay positive and calm in difficult situations. Secondly, there has been a vast change in my outlook. I have started seeing things like life and education from a different perspective than before. I have also started desiring to stay solitary. Whenever I am sad, angry, happy or going through any emotion, I have these philosophical moments, where I need freedom. I like to sit alone and let those thoughts flow through my mind.

I realise some things which nobody knows about - the ways of this world, the ways of different types of people, my own ways, etc. I have started asking questions to myself about myself, this world, for instance who exactly am I? Why am I here? What is my purpose? Is there anyone apart from my family who is really trustworthy? Is this world really like I view it? Am I forgetting the dark sides of this world? Do we need to look out? The list might never end!

The thing I am happiest about, is how I have started to express myself by writing articles, poems, etc. These are reaching the right platform where everyone can read it. I hope my writings are analysed deeply by people so that they understand the hidden meanings, because my works focus on this life and world. To sum it all up, I have changed a lot and I am happy about many of these changes.

MADRID ROUTS SOCIEDAD

Fight back to make it to top of La Liga, set up CL decider with PSG

Real Madrid enjoyed the perfect preparation for Paris Saint-Germain by thrashing Real Sociedad 4-1 on Saturday to move eight points clear at the top of La Liga. Madrid had to come from behind at the Santiago Bernabeu as two scintillating long-range strikes from Eduardo Camavinga and Luka Modric turned the game on its head. After his midfielders scored just before halftime to overturn an early spot kick by Mikel Oyarzabal, Karim Benzema added a second-half penalty to put the result beyond doubt and take his league-leading goal tally to 20. Marco Asensio then finished off the demoralized visitors.

TIMELY STRIKES

Everything seems easier with the 36-year-old Modric, whose own wonder-goal was the highlight of another mesmeric display, for which he earned a standing ovation from the home crowd in the second half.

Camavinga's strike, his second goal for Madrid, was timely given the 19-year-old may have to start against PSG on Wednesday, with Toni Kroos, absent here, struggling with a hamstring strain. "Camavinga is definitely an option," said Madrid coach Carlo Ancelotti. Benzema looks sharp again after recovering from his own hamstring injury last month. Benzema has three goals in his last three games, and had two disallowed against La Real before finally scoring from the spot.

CRITICAL GAME AHEAD

Madrid will prepare for Wednesday's critical game against Paris Saint-Germain with the French powerhouse holding a 1-0 advantage going into the return leg of their Champions League round-of-16 tie. The comeback over Sociedad lifted Madrid eight points clear of second-placed Sevilla, which a day before was held to a scoreless draw at Alavés.

Before kickoff, both teams posed with shirts and large signs reading "Everyone for Ukraine" in Spanish to protest Russia's invasion of its neighbor. Madrid's backup goalkeeper Andriy Lunin, who is Ukrainian, was among the players. Fans at the Santiago Bernabeu also held up large cards with either the yellow or blue colors of the Ukrainian flag.

At the end of the game and with the stadium mostly empty, Madrid's players came back out onto the pitch to salute the ultras behind the goal. "The thanks to the fans was an idea that came from the players," said Ancelotti. "After this game they believe more in what we can do on Wednesday." AGENCIES

PL: MANE STRIKES TO DOWN WEST HAM

Liverpool rode their luck in a 1-0 victory over West Ham

United in the Premier League on Saturday to turn up the heat on leaders Manchester City, who face a derby showdown on Sunday. Sadio Mane's 12th league goal of the season, tucked away midway through the first half, proved just about enough to secure the win as Liverpool narrowed City's lead at the top to three points with both teams having 11 games left to play. The goal in the 27th minute take their points tally to 63 and the side is positioned in second place in the standings. The defeat leaves West Ham still two points outside the top four, having played more games than all their rivals for a place in next season's Champions League.

INDIAN WOMEN CRUSH PAK

BEGIN WORLD CUP CAMPAIGN ON HIGH NOTE AFTER WOBBLY START TO 107-RUN VICTORY

The Indian team thrashed arch-rivals Pakistan by 107 runs to begin their campaign in the ICC Women's World Cup on a rousing note at Mount Maunganui, New Zealand, on Sunday, the much-anticipated face-off ending in a no contest.

Opting to bat after the coin landed in India's favour, in-form opener Smriti Mandhana, Sneha Rana and Pooja Vastrakar struck useful half-centuries to help their team recover from an early wobble and post 244 for seven at the Bay Oval. Chasing a tricky target of 245, the Pakistan team fell way short of the mark and was all out for 137 in 43 overs, losing its 11th straight game against India in the 50-over format.

Left-arm spinner Rajeshwari Gayakwad did the star turn with the ball, returning with excellent figures of 4/31 after her full quota of 10 overs. Seasoned pacer Jhulan Goswami bowled very well to finish the game with impressive figures of 2/29, while there were also two wickets for Rana (2/27), capping off her fine all-round show.

Put under pressure

To start with however, the Indians found themselves under pressure after opener Shafali Verma was dismissed for a duck in the third over. A 92-run stand between Mandhana (52 off 75 balls) and Deepti Sharma (40 off 57) helped steady the ship.

However, Pakistan came back strongly by claiming a flurry of wickets, including the scalps of skipper Mithali Raj (9) and her deputy Haremanpreet Kaur (5). After the early dismissal of Shafali, the duo of Mandhana and Deepti got together to first steady the innings and then build a foundation for Rana and Vastrakar to take their team closer to 250. Rana (53 not out) and Vastrakar (67) shared a crucial 122-run partnership – the highest for the seventh wicket in ICC Women's World Cups – to help boost the India total. The stand between Rana and I'm very happy, my first Player of the Match award, in my first WC game. The plan was to somehow try and get to 200. I like to bat in pressure situations, even in domestics, I told Sneha (Rana) to keep the partnership going.

POOJA VASTRAKAR

Vastrakar hit Pakistan hard as they were hoping to restrict India after reducing them to 116 for four at one point.

For Pakistan, spinners Nida Dar (2/45) and Nushra Sandhu (2/36) snared two wickets each. In reply, Pakistan were precariously placed at 78 for five at the halfway point in their innings, 167 runs away from a win. India were rewarded for some tight bowling early on, limiting Pakistan to just 26 for no loss at the end of the powerplay. The pressure got to the openers as Javeria Khan departed in the 11th over, trying to take the aerial route. After that, the Indian spinners continued to keep a lid on the scoring. m
